The 2019 Biomedical Research Equipment and Supplies Exhibit at Georgia Tech

The Technical Sales Association, a nationwide member-led organization, invites you to exhibit at the 2019 Biomedical Research Equipment and Supplies Exhibit at Georgia Tech in the heart of midtown major research institutions. Based on 30 years of sponsoring similar exhibits, this new location is being added as a permanent exhibit on the TSA calendar. This year's exhibit will be held at the Georgia Tech Student Center. This is an outstanding meeting/exhibit space facility with ample parking and an easy access for both the Georgia Tech Biomedical Research Institutes and the midtown research community. Joining TSA and Georgia Tech will be several local groups and individual facilities promoting this year's exhibit to the midtown biomedical research community.

Georgia Tech consistently ranks among the top U.S. universities in the volume of research conducted, and in 2018, $824 million in research was conducted. It consistently ranks as one of the highest NIH funded departments in the country. The Walter H. Coulter Department of Biomedical Engineering at Georgia Tech and Emory University is dedicated to improving health and well-being. The school is best known for its research and treatment in Parkinson's Alzheimer's, cancer, arthritis, cardiovascular and neurological diseases, and immune disorders. Research Centers at Georgia Tech include Center for Immunoengineering, Georgia Center for Medical Robotics, Marcus Center for Therapeutic Cell Characterization and Manufacturing, Nanomedicine Center for Nucleoprotein Machines, and Neural Engineering Center.

Midtown Atlanta is home to dozens of targeted research labs working directly with business leaders and practitioners to bring new innovative approaches to a myriad of disciplines from health IT, computing research to biomedical electronics and photonics.

The 2019 exhibit will feature over 50 regional and national companies presenting to over 200 attendees. Space is limited so we strongly suggest you send in your exhibit application today.
